Adverbs of time, manner & frequency

An adverb of time is a word that describes when something happens.

- Some are used at the start or the end of a sentence e.g. today, tonight, tomorrow, now, then, soon, later, afterwards

e.g. Today, Joyce holds a birthday party.

Dad will come home soon.

Then, we will have dinner.

- Some are used at the end of a sentence e.g. early, immediately, late e.g. Ian woke up late this morning.

He jumped out of his bed immediately.
