I interviewed my dad after dinner on what games he played in his childhood. He told me that his childhood was total different from mine. He did not have any computers or smartphones after when he was small. What a surprise to me! He said he oftenly played marbles and football out with his siblings. He said he bought his first mobile phone immediate after he received his first salary, but by then, he was already 24 years old. I could have ever imagined that his childhood was so different from mine yesterday.
